Pat & Ann Helt
Brown You know!

Sometimes I wake up early,
To watch the sun come up,
To see its incredible colors,
To see it change the sky.

Sometimes I pick up a leaf,
To see its small details,
To see all its many lines,
And to see its many colors.

Sometimes I look at the clouds,
To see their many different shapes,
To imagine what could be hiding in them,
And to guess what they are doing up there.

Sometimes I look at the world
And try to see all of it,
The big things and small things.

As we walk we find our way,
As we listen we hear the birds,
As the wind blows, he makes,
his song.

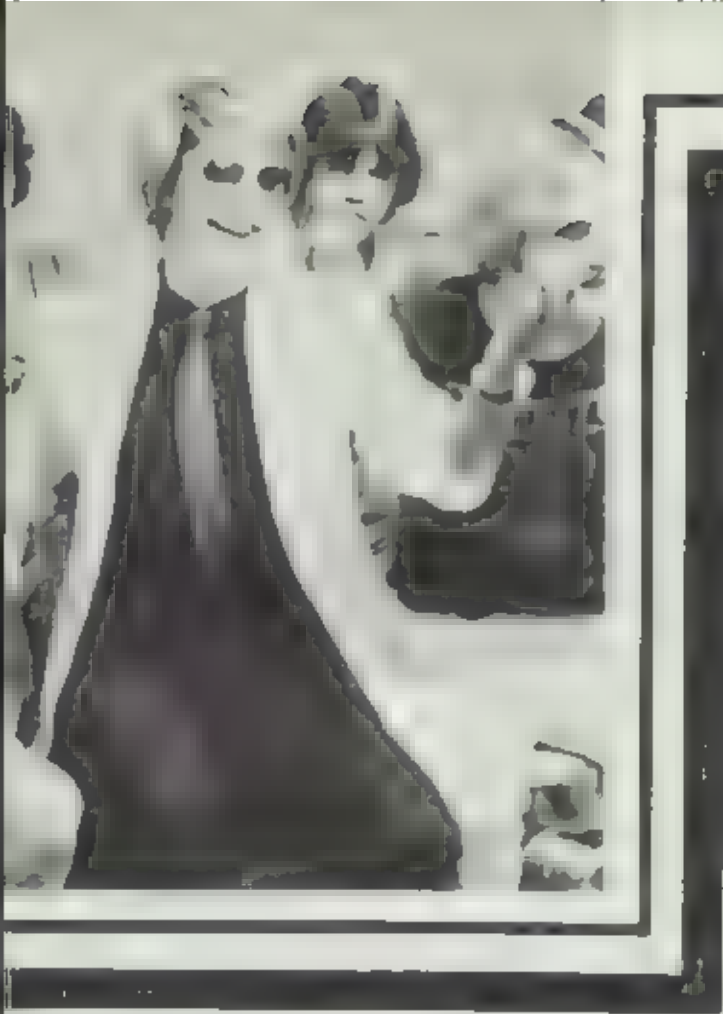

For those who will, come and see,
For those who listen, let them hear,
For those who sing, let there be songs,
For those who walk, show them the way.

CLASSES

"Aloha" Means Goodbye Too

Reflecting on their sophomore year, Senior commented, "I threw up on the first day. I couldn't find the classes. I was in love with all the football players." One Senior said, "I'm just trying to forget it."

As your last year of high school passes by, you try not to think about goodbyes and try to concentrate on the relief of graduating and the big party afterward. Some students may find that "Senior Year" is not all it's cracked up to be, after hearing from 297 people that it was their best year of high school. You can be more than a little disappointed when your class float doesn't win at Homecoming, or when you weren't asked to the Prom, or the Senior Trip to Hawaii never became a reality.

But it's a year out of your life, and there were a lot of laughs, tears, joys, sorrows, and they'll be treasured, precious memories forever.

You realize that all those times you teased underclassmen was because they were important to you and you'll miss them. And all those hours spent practicing, working, sweating and cursing were all worthwhile when you all worked together to win a game, produce a yearbook, or put on a play. You realize that maybe high school wasn't all a waste of time—the frog guys in Biology, the angles in Geometry, and diagramming sentences in English. It was all part of those wild and crazy years. You realize you're leaving and probably no one will remember you but maybe, just maybe, someone will.

Senior Representatives

The senior representatives of the school are a group of students who are chosen to represent the school at various events and functions.

For the past several years, the school has had a group of senior representatives. In the past, the group has been made up of students who are interested in public relations, and who are willing to take on the responsibility of representing the school.

The senior representatives are chosen by the school board, and they are responsible for representing the school at all times.

The senior representatives are responsible for representing the school at all times, and they are also responsible for representing the school at all times. They are responsible for representing the school at all times, and they are also responsible for representing the school at all times.

Middle Of The Road Gang

Junior year-just one step down from the Seniors. The class of 1982 kept split high throughout the year-from beginning to end. Some comments from Juniors on Juniors were:

"It's a relief to have just one year to go."

"I ditch less this year. If I'm going to graduate, I need to get serious about this."

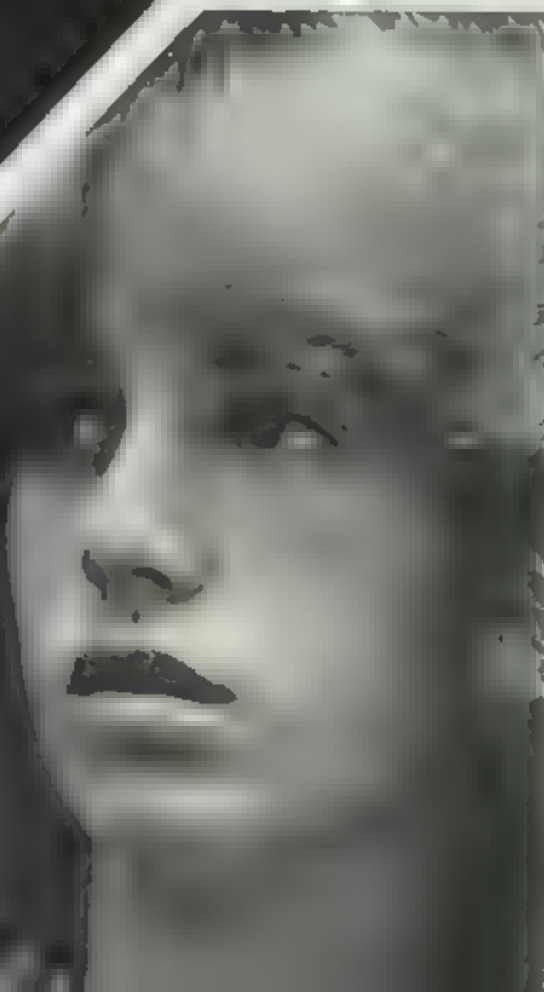

"I feel bigger and more part of the school because you're finally treated like a person."

"Juniors get to go to the PROM!"

"The best thing about being a Junior is not being a Sophomore! The worst thing is that you're not a Senior."

Perhaps the most honest statement was, "We're just in the middle of the road with a long way to go."

Teenage Triangle

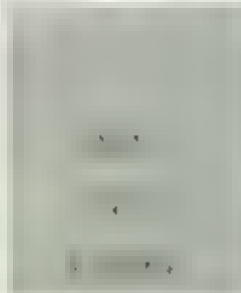

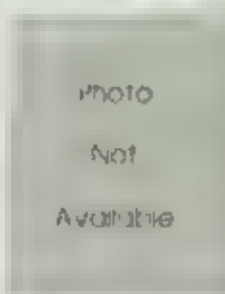

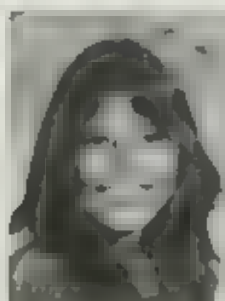

By Sara Smith

A romance can grow old quickly
When one cares more than the other Constantly searching for someone new Another face changes the scenery

He's fine and mysterious
He makes you feel like somebody special
His presence gives you butterflies
His tenderness makes you warm

The time comes when feelings change
The face grows old, mystery is lost
You're restless, tired of monotony
Once again the scenery changes

Yesterday we lived for each other
And for the love
But now that you're so far away
Only live for me

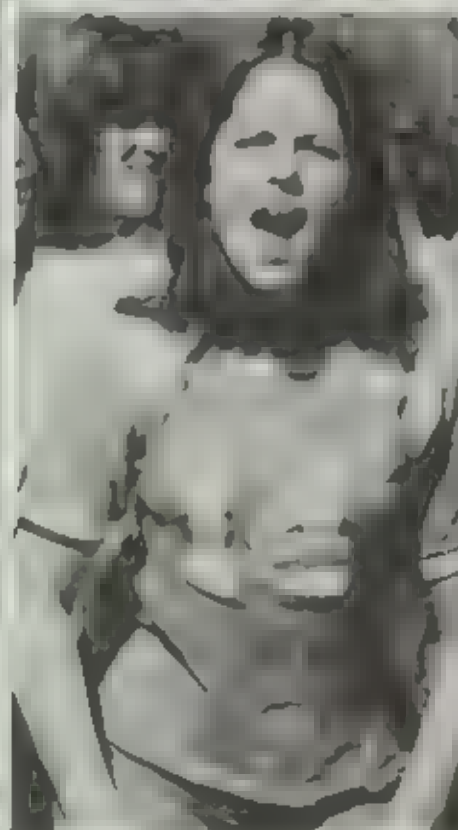

The many romantic strolls we took
On the silvery moonlit beach
Seem like an eternity ago
And so far out of reach

The gentle waves lapped at our feet
As they sunk in the sticky sand
Our laughter echoed over the beach
While we walked hand in hand

Last night I went down to the beach
To see if it's the same
Our laughs still echo in the air
The waves now call your name

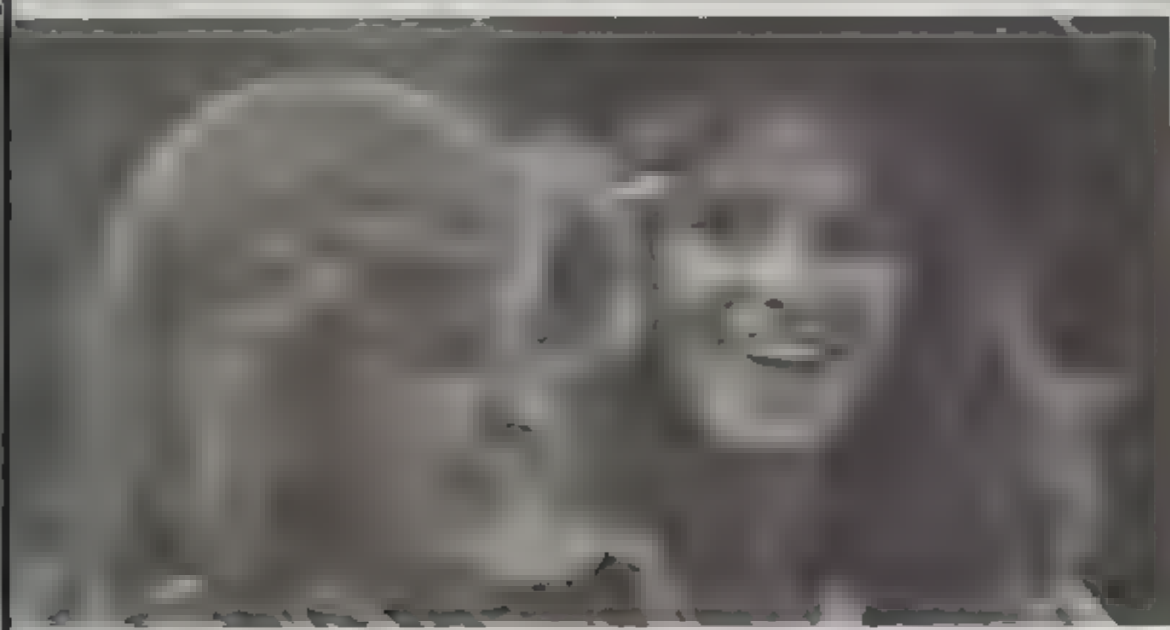

While sitting bathed in white moonlight
The breeze blew me a kiss
Tears flowed freely down my cheeks
For the love I miss

My teacher told us to write something so I did
With the time that we have which I'll add isn't much We have to write a poem, Something I wouldn't touch
I'm not very good, I don't get much practice
But I guess I'll have to, cause that's what she asked of us
If teach doesn't like it, I'll just have to say
I did my best, and took it all the way

When I'm around you,
I feel joy and happiness
Life could go on with no end
It's like having a space in eternity
You make me feel like some one cares
And if you happen to find some one you

Please always remember
I'll always love you and just you
For life is special
Always hold special moments

Starting Over

Sophomores arrive at high school with hopes, fears, and a lot of questions like "How am I supposed to reach my locker?" "What's the first dance?" and "Where's the bathroom?" But, by the end of the year, they ask sophisticated questions like: "Should I take Advanced Placement Physics AAAA or should I choose Psychology for the Modern Sociological Anthropologist?" "Don't you think high school is a lot better than junior high?" and "How are you supposed to see through the smoke in the bathroom now that I've found it?" Sophomores tend to be treated as if they had a disease, but as one sophomore would like to remind us all, "you were a sophomore too!" Some advice from a senior to a sophomore: "If you can make it through your sophomore year, you can live through anything so hang in there!"

The Eagle
 Soaring majestically with defiance and grace
 The eagle is in flight
 With no haunting barriers, truly free
 The eagle is in flight
 But the vain bands of humanity reach wide and high
 And try to force the proud eagle from his boundless sky
 And so he gives out one last defiant cry
 Then blends into the dusk
 The eagle is in flight

A New Beginning

Here you go again, a new beginning
 Starting all over, to know no ending
 Some off to college, some to work
 Yet, all out alone, in the big world
 Some will be rich, some will be poor
 Some will be satisfied, some will want more Here you all go, hoping to score
 Stepping one foot out life's big door
 Everyone out to start anew
 Good-bye, eighty-one, we'll miss you

Booster Club

President Joe Kleen

The Booster Club is made up of parents of the football team. We need them for our far away games! Without them, there is no life in our games!

We should have more dedicated parents like the ones this year. Thank you Booster Club for all your help.

Foreign

This year we are sorry to say that there are only two Foreign Exchange students this year. Mrs. Hunt is still very proud to have Dana Kohler and Olivier Renard with her. The school welcomes both Dana (Germany) and Olivier (France) to America. We hope that they enjoyed themselves.

Time isn't half of it-yearbook production takes more than one's time. It requires creativity (sometimes the staff lacks this), patience (everyone is definitely short of this), time (which we never had enough of) and the ability to work with others (somehow we managed).

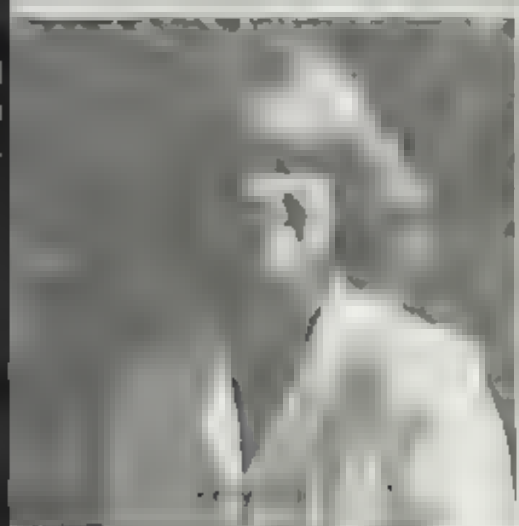

The yearbook staff is accustomed to accusations. "You didn't put the Minute Club in, we have four members!" "Why didn't you put my retake in? The other one shows a big pimple on my nose!" "You spelled my name wrong! Nobody even knows where to look for me." "You guys never do anything."

Maybe the fact that the amount of time spent taking pictures, drawing layouts, getting information, picking out pictures, printing and cropping pictures, and writing and typing copy takes an average of thirty-eight hours, and that's just for two pages out of this book. We tried to tell the story of your year, for you. We tried new ideas and made a lot of mistakes, but there is something good here. Our apologies to anyone whose club, activity, or sport wasn't included; all we can say is, we tried.

The clown applies his make-up with the ease of years and experience. The happy smile, the bright eyes to please the crowd. The stunts worked on for weeks are given the ultimate test. The lights die down, the clowns emerge in all their gaiety. The painted smiles, the bright red noses shine in the glow of the lights. The clowns leave, the cheers and laughter left behind. The make-up comes off to reveal a man, open and vulnerable.

In this 1980-81 school year we had a very large turnout of seniors but the Juniors and Sophomores were also very competitive and they participated in many events. We hunt the spirit of the school and it is enjoyable and full of fun for every club member.

JAZZ BAND

The Jazz Band is a group of students who play jazz music. They are led by Mr. Lee. The band has been successful in many competitions. They have won first place in the state competition. They have also won first place in the national competition. The band is a great way for students to learn about jazz music and to have fun.

HONOR BAND

The Honor Band is a group of students who play honor music. They are led by Mr. Lee. The band has been successful in many competitions. They have won first place in the state competition. They have also won first place in the national competition. The band is a great way for students to learn about honor music and to have fun.

Mr. Lee

You may, after years of schooling, ask the question: "What motivates teachers?" What indeed, inspired these creatures from the "Land of Pedagogy"? These monsters who assign volumes of homework over Christmas vacation and cram theorems down thirty unwilling throats five hours a day; these would-be comedians who attempt warmed-over Steve Martin jokes; these masochists who deprive themselves of only their most aesthetic needs (a food, clothing, and shelter) for the pleasure of grading research papers; "It dawn's early light" in staying after school until 4:00 trying to help the yearbook staff finish their layouts to meet their deadline; these friends who devote their time, energy, a huge chunk of their lives to their profession, but mainly for us. Why do they teach? "I couldn't qualify to be a Playboy Bunny," Mr. Smith. "To make students self-sustaining in life," Mr. Conrad. "I hope to contribute some little bit toward preparing the little wehins for the cold, cruel world they will encounter at the outside. Besides, torture chambers are illegal in present society," Mr. Pity. "I like young people. Besides, I'm a glutton for punishment," Mrs. Nave. Mr. Smith said that important qualities a teacher should have are, "Love, understanding, a sense of humor, a lot of patience, and the ability to leap tall buildings in a single bound." Mr. Pity added, "You have to know your own strengths and weaknesses and basically understand yourself."

Our roots grow deep in Arizona. Especially in Flagstaff where we have been a corporate citizen since 1924. During 1980, in excess of $6 million in payrolls will go to more than 500 people directly dependent on our Flagstaff sawmill and logging operations.

A Flagstaff citizen for more than a half-century

We're committed to long-term investments here. Constant improvements have given our sawmill the capacity to produce more than 70 million board feet of lumber a year. That's enough to build 5,000 typical single-family homes. And a $2 million logging camp is located 56 miles southeast of Flagstaff near Clints Well. Flagstaff also is the headquarters for our wide-ranging timber harvesting operations which supply our Arizona and New Mexico sawmills with sawlogs and our Snowflake, Arizona paper mill with pulpwood and wood chips. Yes, Flagstaff is important to us in many ways.
